2017 AUSTRALASIAN AID CONFERENCE

CONFERENCE PROGRAM

Wednesday 15 February & Thursday 16 February 2017

JG Crawford Building 132
Lennox Crossing
Australian National University

Development Policy Centre
Crawford School of Public Policy
ANU College of Asia & the Pacific
2017 Australasian Aid Conference – Tuesday 14 February 2017

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>5pm</td>
<td>Launch of World Development Report 2017: Governance and the Law</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Luis Felipe Lopez Calva, WDR Co-Director and panel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Barton Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.30pm</td>
<td>Cocktail reception</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Launch of India’s Approach to Development Cooperation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Guest of honour: David Arnold, President, The Asia Foundation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Crawford School courtyard</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

2017 Australasian Aid Conference – Wednesday 15 February 2017

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>8.30am</td>
<td>Registration and arrival tea and coffee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9.00am</td>
<td>Welcome address</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Molonglo Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9.15am</td>
<td>Opening address</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Molonglo Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The Hon Julie Bishop MP</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10.05am</td>
<td>Keynote address: Now for the hard part: strategies for enhancing state capability for implementation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Molonglo Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Michael Woolcock</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11.00 – 11.20am</td>
<td>Morning tea</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11.20am – 12.50pm</td>
<td>Panel 1a – Molonglo Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The role and relevance of the ADB</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11.20am – 12.50pm</td>
<td>Panel 1b – Acton Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Language matters in aid effectiveness</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11.20am – 12.50pm</td>
<td>Panel 1c – Weston Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Engaging and empowering women</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11.20am – 12.50pm</td>
<td>Panel 1d – Barton Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Negotiating statebuilding</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11.20am – 12.50pm</td>
<td>Panel 1e – Brindabella Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Aid’s changing landscape</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11.20am – 12.50pm</td>
<td>Panel 1f – Seminar Room 7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Looking north: Australia and its neighbours</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12.50 – 1.50pm</td>
<td>Lunch</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.50 – 3.20pm</td>
<td>Plenary session: Asian approaches to engaging the private sector in development cooperation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Molonglo Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The role of the private sector in Asian-led development cooperation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>has been less discussed in comparison to government strategies.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>However Asian providers have vibrant private sectors who are</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>expanding their sphere of influence and practice into development</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>cooperation. Asian companies are often the implementers of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>infrastructure projects, whether through lines of credit or tied</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>aid. At the other end of the spectrum many Asian multinationals</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>are involved in corporate social responsibility and shared value</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>initiatives in the region. The panel will explore how</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>collaborative approaches with</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>private sector are evolving in the Asian context and where further</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>opportunity exists.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Time</td>
<td>Event Description</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>--------------</td>
<td>-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.20 – 3.40pm</td>
<td>Afternoon tea</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| 3.40 – 5.10pm | Panel 2a – Molonglo Theatre
Country ownership and transitions
Panel 2b – Acton Theatre
Translating international development and indigenous affairs
Panel 2c – Weston Theatre
Bringing ‘thinking and working politically’ and gender together I
Panel 2d – Barton Theatre
Philanthropy and NGOs
Panel 2e – Brindabella Theatre
Making migration work for development
Panel 2f – Seminar Room 7
Aid effectiveness: measurement and management |
| 5.10pm       | Close                                                                             |
| 6.30pm       | Conference dinner
Great Hall, University House
Presentation of the Mitchell Humanitarian Award |
2017 Australasian Aid Conference – Thursday 16 February 2017

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Session</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>7.30am</td>
<td>Registration and arrival tea and coffee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.00 – 9.30am</td>
<td>Panel 3a – Molonglo Theatre&lt;br&gt;Private sector innovation&lt;br&gt;Panel 3b – Acton Theatre&lt;br&gt;Strengthening health systems&lt;br&gt;Panel 3c – Weston Theatre&lt;br&gt;Bringing ‘thinking and working politically’ and gender together II&lt;br&gt;Panel 3d – Barton Theatre&lt;br&gt;Evaluation in the context of policy and politics&lt;br&gt;Panel 3e – Brindabella Theatre&lt;br&gt;International climate policy and politics&lt;br&gt;Panel 3f – Seminar Room 7&lt;br&gt;Aid case studies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9.40am</td>
<td>Plenary session: 3MAP: the three-minute aid pitch – ideas to improve Australian aid&lt;br&gt;Molonglo Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>What does Australian aid need more of, or less of? What are its ailments and what shape its cures? This panel presents the best, the most original, the most transformational, the most innovative ideas to get more bang from the 4 billion dollar buck that is the Australian aid program. Following the 3-minute-thesis format, rival advocates will battle it out for your vote. For something quick and different, don’t miss 3MAP: ideas to improve Australian aid. And don’t just turn up to the session. Shape it by submitting your proposal to devpolicy@anu.edu.au. Chair: Joel Negin, University of Sydney</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10.40 – 11.00am</td>
<td>Morning tea</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11.00am – 12.30pm</td>
<td>Panel 4a – Molonglo Theatre&lt;br&gt;Working with and through markets&lt;br&gt;Panel 4b – Acton Theatre&lt;br&gt;Local actor-led policy development: new evidence-based approaches from Indonesia&lt;br&gt;Panel 4c – Weston Theatre&lt;br&gt;Closing the gender data gap: the Individual Deprivation Measure&lt;br&gt;Panel 4d – Barton Theatre&lt;br&gt;Disability and development: a success story? Next steps&lt;br&gt;Panel 4e – Brindabella Theatre&lt;br&gt;Humanitarian and disaster response&lt;br&gt;Panel 4f – Seminar Room 7&lt;br&gt;The value of research for development</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12.30pm</td>
<td>Lunch</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.30pm</td>
<td>Plenary session: The humanitarian system in crisis&lt;br&gt;Molonglo Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The humanitarian aid system is in crisis. It's a crisis of identity, financing and conduct. Agencies set up to deal with the immediate impacts of traumatic events find themselves have become de facto providers of long-term development assistance to displaced communities. Agencies set up to develop global norms and provide technical assistance to governments are facing pressure to coordinate flash responses to transboundary threats. In aggregate, funding for crisis response falls far short of needs and is ad hoc and short-term. Humanitarian actors are more than ever divided over traditional principles of humanitarian action, particularly independence and impartiality. Many of these problems have been thrown into sharp relief by the civil conflict in Syria and its impacts in surrounding countries over the past five years. Arguably, global summity in 2015 and 2016 has done little to alleviate the humanitarian aid crisis. In a business-as-usual scenario, will implementing agencies really become better coordinated and more efficient, and donors more generous, flexible and willing to increase support for local actors? This panel discussion will air a diversity of perspectives on the state of the humanitarian aid system and options for improving it. Disagreement is guaranteed. So too are concrete ideas. Robin Davies, Associate Director, Development Policy Centre, ANU</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Time</td>
<td>Event</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-------------</td>
<td>----------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.00 – 3.20pm</td>
<td>Afternoon tea</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| 3.20 – 4:50pm | Panel 5a – Molonglo Theatre
Beyond capacity building: how development assistance can improve justice outcomes
Panel 5b – Acton Theatre
Labour mobility among Australia’s neighbours
Panel 5c – Weston Theatre
Donor aid flows, policies, and perceptions
Panel 5d – Barton Theatre
Humanitarian civil-military cooperation
Panel 5e – Brindabella Theatre
Global issues in aid and development
Panel 5f – Seminar Room 7
Engaging with churches to address gender inequality and violence |
| 4.50pm       | Closing drinks reception
Crawford School courtyard                                              |

2017 DFAT Aid Suppliers Conference – Friday 17 February 2017

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 9:00am-5:00pm | DFAT Inaugural Aid Supplier Conference
Crawford School, various rooms
Separate registration required; for more information contact: aidsupplierconference@dfat.gov.au |
Tuesday 14 February 2016

5.00pm Launch of World Development Report 2017: Governance and the Law
Barton Theatre

James Brumby, The World Bank; Luis Felipe Lopez Calva, The World Bank; Natasha Smith, DFAT; Helen Szoke, Oxfam Australia; and Veronica Taylor, ANU

6.30pm Cocktail reception
Launch of India’s Approach to Development Cooperation
Crawford School courtyard

Guest of honour: David Arnold, President, The Asia Foundation

---

Note about this conference program:

The main conference consists of two days of plenary and parallel sessions. Parallel sessions are either submitted or collated. Submitted sessions have a panel abstract, while collated sessions have individual paper abstracts; the former are included in this program, while the latter are included in the conference abstract book which will be released shortly.
Wednesday 15 February 2016

8.30am  Registration and arrival tea and coffee

9.00am  Welcome address
        Molonglo Theatre

9.15am  Opening address
        Molonglo Theatre

The Hon Julie Bishop MP, Minister for Foreign Affairs

10.05am  Keynote address:
         Now for the hard part: strategies for enhancing state capability for implementation
         Molonglo Theatre

Michael Woolcock, Lead Social Development Specialist, World Bank and Lecturer in Public Policy, Harvard University

Despite what today’s headlines might convey, life for most people in most developing countries has never been better. This should be rightly celebrated, but improving basic levels of human welfare from a low base was the relatively ‘easy’ part. To consolidate and expand these achievements, the key development challenge remains building the state’s capability to implement incrementally more complex and contentious tasks, at scale (e.g., justice, regulation, taxation, land administration) and those tasks inherently requiring extended forms of human interaction (classroom teaching, curative care). These are fundamentally different types of challenges, however, ones for which our prevailing aid architecture was not designed and on which achievements to date are mostly flat or declining: if current trends continue, only about 10% of those living in developing countries today will have descendants who reside in a ‘high capability’ country by the end of this century. Different types of problems require different kinds of solutions, elements of which will be outlined.

11.00am  Morning tea

11.20am  Panel 1a – The role and relevance of the Asian Development Bank in the 21st century
         Molonglo Theatre
The Lowy Institute ADB report addresses the questions of how the ADB will navigate the geopolitical dynamics of a region squeezed between a cautious United States and a rising China; how it will fulfil its mandate for economic development and poverty reduction while responding to Asia’s changing economic geography; and how it will harness alternative methods of development finance and adapt to remain the lender of choice in the region. The report is based on extensive stakeholder engagement involving more than 60 interviews across the globe, combined with desk-based qualitative and quantitative analysis.

In this panel, the report’s authors Annmaree O’Keefe, Jonathan Pryke and Hannah Wurf of the Lowy Institute will outline the key challenges and recommendations that they have identified. This will be followed by a discussion and unpacking of the results from ADB stakeholders:

Emma Xiaoqin Fan, ADB Pacific Liaison and Coordination Office
Mike Callaghan AM, Lowy Institute
Peter McCawley, Crawford School of Public Policy

Panel 1b – Language matters in aid effectiveness
Acton Theatre

The importance of language is so fundamental that it is often unproblematised and overlooked in the design of aid projects. Without consideration of the multifaceted ways in which language and literacy function in different communities, especially those with high levels of autochthonous multilingualism, the effectiveness of project outcomes may be affected.

In this panel we show that while language per se may not have been identified as a focus of project design, addressing language issues was critical for the successful outcome of programmes in the diverse fields of poverty analysis and food security, women’s farming, women’s leadership, and quality education. We argue that the importance of language issues means that they should be explicitly considered in the design of all development aid projects.

Language matters in accurate measurement of the Sustainable Development Goals
Stephen Haslett, ANU

Building gender equity through linguistically and culturally relevant capacity building programmes
Jo Caffery, University of Canberra

Bilingual language resources to increase agricultural learning in Papua New Guinea
Kym Simoncini, University of Canberra
Language as a children’s right in quality education: evidence from Vanuatu, Kiribati and Solomon Islands
Hilary Smith, ANU and ARC Centre of Excellence for the Dynamics of Language

Panel 1c – Engaging and empowering women
Weston Theatre

How do positive changes in gender relations happen?
Juliet Hunt, Independent Consultant

Does gender sensitive-Disaster Risk Reduction make a difference when a Category 5 cyclone hits? A comparative impact study in the wake of Tropical Cyclone Pam in Vanuatu
Julie Webb, Independent Consultant; Charlie Damon and Megan Chisholm, CARE International in Vanuatu

Where are the women leaders? Identifying and combatting barriers to women’s humanitarian leadership
Kate Sutton and Ayla Black, Humanitarian Advisory Group

The political economy and politics of aid: gender equality in the Pacific
Tracey Newbury, DFAT

Panel 1d – Negotiating statebuilding
Barton Theatre

Statebuilding in fragile and conflict-affected states: Supporting inclusive political settlements
Sue Ingram, ANU

"The hand that gave us flour now gives us bombs": the limited effectiveness of U.S. aid in Israel-Palestine’s "new legal space"
Hannah Early, Westmont College

Rule of law assistance and its interfaces in Myanmar: actors, trends and technologies
Kristina Simion, ANU

Panel 1e – Aid’s changing landscape
Brindabella Theatre

The rise of the south and the transformation of development cooperation in the 21st century

Possible future roles for INGOs in Vietnam and issues of sustainability
Ta Van Tuan, Australian Foundation for the Peoples of Asia and the Pacific (AFAP) in Vietnam; Sarah Ransom, Embassy of Australia in Vietnam; Thaveeporn Vasavakul, Governance Support Facility Initiatives (GOSFI); Pham Kieu Oanh, Centre for Social Initiatives Promotion (CSIP); and Nguyen Phuong Anh, Freelance Consultant

Nurturing the neighbour: Indonesian ‘development’ cooperation to Myanmar
Miranda Tahalele, The Australian National University

Development and aid effectiveness, human rights and gender equality in the context of MDGs and SDGs in Vietnam involving Australia as a traditional donor and partner
Vu Ngoc Binh, Institute for Population, Family and Children Studies (IPFCS)

Panel 1f – Looking north: Australia and its neighbours

Seminar Room 7

Aid, maritime boundary, and Timor-Leste–Australia relations
Guteriano Neves, ANU

Non-citizen advisers in Papua New Guinea
Carmen Voigt-Graf, ANU

Anatomy of a curriculum review project that never got started
Michele Rumsey, Lin Lock, Di Brown, Amanda Neill, and Jodi Thiessen, WHO Collaborating Centre for Nursing, Midwifery and Health Development, University of Technology Sydney

Understanding borderlanders: complexity of government service delivery in the PNG–Australia border region
Mark Moran, Nathalie Gentle, Laura Simpson Reeves, Kevin Murphy, and Geoff Miller, University of Queensland

12.50pm  Lunch

1.50pm  Plenary session:
Asian approaches to engaging the private sector in development cooperation
Molonglo Theatre
Chair: Anthea Mulakala, The Asia Foundation
Involving the private sector in development cooperation is a priority today not only for many Western countries, but also for many Asian ones. Several Asian providers of development cooperation have vibrant private sectors who are expanding their sphere of influence and practice into development cooperation. Asian companies are often the implementers of infrastructure projects, whether through lines of credit or tied aid. At the other end of the spectrum many Asian multinationals are involved in corporate social responsibility and shared value initiatives in the region. This panel will explore how collaborative approaches with private sector in development are evolving in the Asian context and where further opportunities exist.

Guo Peiyuan, General Manager, SynTao

Jeon Hyunjin, Manager, Corporate Social Responsibility Team, LG Electronics HQ

Prabodh Saxena, Principal Secretary, Government of Himachal Pradesh

Simon Cramp, Director of Private Sector Development, DFAT

3.20pm
Afternoon tea

3.40pm
Panel 2a – Country ownership and transitions
Molonglo Theatre

The aid policy network in Pakistan: an actor-network analysis
Faheem Khan, Pakistan Institute of Development Economics

Foreign aid and middle income trap: lessons from South Korea and Japan as former aid recipients
Dennis Trinidad, De La Salle University

Country ownership matters... for countries! Understanding policymaking on “country ownership” of aid and development in the Pacific
Suzanne O’Neill, ANU

Panel 2b – Translating international development and indigenous affairs
Acton Theatre
Chair: Mark Moran, University of Queensland
International development theory and practice is increasingly being adapted to Indigenous contexts within Australia, largely as a means to counter a dominant service delivery and welfare paradigm. This panel will explore this trend, and what a developmental approach looks like in Indigenous communities. How do Indigenous contexts in high-income countries like Australia, differ from those found in low- and middle-income countries overseas? Do they more acutely experience a gap in worldview and living conditions, a political contest with a more dominant or colonising other, and delivery problems and administrative burden arising from a multiple programs? What lessons can be gleaned from the translation of development theories, frameworks and tools to Indigenous contexts? What factors take prominence? And what could Australian aid agencies draw from Australia's experience of Indigenous affairs in their work in Indigenous contexts in low- and middle-income countries?

Michael Woolcock
Lead Social Development Specialist, World Bank and Lecturer in Public Policy, Harvard University

Geoff Richardson
Assistant Secretary, Department of Prime Minster and Cabinet (Indigenous Affairs)

Grant Paulson
Faith and Development Adviser, World Vision Australia

Annie Kennedy
Tjuwanpa Outstation Resource Centre Aboriginal Corporation

Panel 2c – Bringing ‘thinking and working politically’ and gender together I
Weston Theatre
Chair: Sarah Goulding, DFAT

It is increasingly recognised that tackling inequalities is a critically important part of reducing poverty and increasing prosperity and that this requires a recognition of the political and social processes by which this might be done (World Bank, 2016). Addressing gender inequality is clearly a central element of this agenda. Historically gender equality movements in many countries have contributed to real reform including for example in relation to violence against women (Htun and Weldon, 2012), female genital mutilation (Crismann et al, 2016) and, of course, women’s right to vote (Ramirez, 1997). However a recent survey of political economy analysis tools and reports concluded that gender has often been systematically overlooked in these studies (Browne 2014). It has therefore been suggested that an understanding of how gender analysis and political economy approaches can be better integrated will not only contribute to gender equality outcomes, but to improving inclusive development more broadly. This includes how a focus on gender can also incorporate broader diversity concerns including sexual rights.

Two panels, based in most part on research conducted by the Developmental Leadership Program, and the Pacific Leadership Program, with the support of the Pacific Women Shaping Pacific Development program, explore this broad theme. This first panel will focus more on primary research undertaken on the topic, the second (Panel 3C) will explore the relationship between research and practice where researchers and practitioners will together draw out some of the successes, challenges and lessons learnt, as well as reflect upon what this might mean for others.

Power, politics and coalitions in the Pacific: lessons from collective action on gender and power
Tait Brimacombe and Chris Roche, La Trobe University

Thinking and working politically in the global garment industry
Alice Evans, University of Cambridge

DFID and sexual rights in Uganda
Niheer Dasandi, University of Birmingham

Savvy and connected: analysing successful women’s coalitions in Papua New Guinea and Malaysia
Ceridwen Spark and Julian Lee, RMIT University

Panel 2d – Philanthropy and NGOs
Barton Theatre

International philanthropy’s contribution to the SDGs
Rod Reeve, Ninti One Limited and the Cooperative Research Centre for Remote Economic Participation

Aid online: an analysis of how Australian aid NGOs use the internet
Sachini Muller and Terence Wood, Development Policy Centre, ANU

Philanthropy as a development actor: influence and implications
Jeremy Stringer, DFAT

Panel 2e – Making migration work for development
Brindabella Theatre

What can migration indices tell us about migration and development in Australia?
Henry Sherrell, ANU
Safe migration: an emerging development modality?
Sverre Molland, ANU

Korea’s Employment Permit System and its impact: a case study of Nepali migrant workers
Eun Mie Lim, Ewha Womans University

Panel 2f – Aid effectiveness: measurement and management
Seminar Room 7

Transparency in development cooperation: much done, much left to do
Rupert Simons, Publish What You Fund

Partnering agreements: Effective relationship management as risk management in complex international partnerships
Nicola Nixon, DFAT; and Julie Mundy, Effective Collective

What are we measuring when we talk about aid effectiveness? A new typology of aid
Jo Hall, ANU

Aid Effectiveness Confessions – what’s wrong with aid performance management systems and a way forward
Neal Forster, Office of Development Effectiveness, DFAT

5.10pm Close

6.30pm Conference dinner
Great Hall, University House

Presentation of the Mitchell Humanitarian Award
Thursday 16 February 2016

7.30am  Registration and arrival tea and coffee

8.10am  Panel 3a – Private sector innovation
Molonglo Theatre

Aid effectiveness and the private sector: innovative initiatives for Asia-Pacific’s entrepreneurial development
Rukmani Gounder, Massey University

Innovative malaria projects through public private partnerships in Papua New Guinea Islands Region
Ross Hutton, New Ireland Provincial Malaria Alliance; and Ray Hughes-Odgers, Shared Sky Pty Ltd

Private sector roles in service delivery: the complex political economy of local government roles in market facilitation and regulation
Juliet Willetts, University of Technology Sydney

Hela Provincial Health Authority: a public private partnership model
Stephanie Copus-Campbell, Oil Search Foundation

Panel 3b – Strengthening health systems
Acton Theatre

Possibilities for transformation or more of the same? Ethnic health system development in Shan State, Myanmar
Sharon Bell, Massey University

Integrated patrols for rural and remote populations in New Ireland with in-service and patrol based training for rural and remote health workers in New Ireland – a combination that delivers
Klara Henderson, Patrick McCloskey and Liz Mackinlay, Australian Doctors International

Evaluating the effectiveness of a decade of Australia’s investments in pandemics and emerging infectious disease preparedness and response in the Asia Pacific region: Are health systems stronger?
Gill Schierhout, University of NSW; Adam Craig, independent public health consultant; Laurence Gleeson, independent animal health and production specialist; and Irene Wettenhall, DFAT

Global health gains: lessons from Asia Pacific disease control
Maxine Whittaker, James Cook University
Panel 3c – Bringing ‘thinking and working politically’ and gender together II
Weston Theatre
Chair: Sandra Kraushaar, DFAT

Lessons learned from women's leadership and coalitions in Indonesia
Tanya McQueen, Cardno, and Hannah Derwent, DFAT

Working politically to advance transgendered rights and opportunities in Indonesia
Debra Ladner or Mark Koenig, The Asia Foundation, and Angie Bexley, Peduli Project

Thinking and working politically to support developmental leadership and coalitions – the gender dimension: The Pacific Leadership Program
Lisa Denney, Rebecca McLaren, La Trobe University; and Peni Tawake, Pacific Leadership Program

What do effective coalitions for gender equality look like in the Pacific?
Noelene Nabulivou, Diverse Voices and Action for Equality, and Tara Chetty, Pacific Women Support Unit

Panel 3d – Evaluation in the context of policy and politics
Barton Theatre

Evaluation in relation to the politics and effectiveness of aid
Ravi Ram, Independent Evaluator

Marrying public diplomacy and aid evaluation: what is the potential for political-benefits analysis?
Sarah Mason, University of Melbourne

How much can impact evaluations inform policy decisions?
Eva Vivalt, ANU

Panel 3e – International climate policy and politics
Brindabella Theatre

Cross-border impacts of climate policies on livelihoods: rethinking the case for international assistance
Jonathan Pickering, University of Canberra

Politics matter! Or why, after more than 10 years and US$45 million in donor funding, Papua New Guinea still hasn’t reduced greenhouse gas emissions from deforestation and forest degradation (REDD+)
Andrea Babon, Charles Darwin University
Climate change investment in the Pacific: quality is as important as quantity
Rhona McPhee, DFAT; and Kate Duggan, Griffin-NRM

Panel 3f – Aid case studies
Seminar Room 7

Partnering for effective change – The case of the Australia Africa Community Engagement Scheme (AACES)
Linda Kelly, LaTrobe University

Aid effectiveness, partnerships, and international development volunteering
Susanne Schech, Anuradha Mundkur, Flinders University; and Simona Achitei, Scope Global

Results-based financing of last-mile water projects: a science-of-delivery case for SDG6
Oleh Khalayim, The World Bank; and Robert Warner, ANU

9.40am Plenary session:
3MAP: the Three-Minute Aid Pitch – ideas to improve Australian aid
Molonglo Theatre
Chair: Joel Negin, University of Sydney

What does Australian aid need more of, or less of? What are its ailments and what shape its cures? This panel presents the best, the most original, the most transformational, the most innovative ideas to get more bang from the 4 billion dollar buck that is the Australian aid program. Following the 3-Minute-Thesis format, rival advocates will battle it out for your vote. For something quick and different, don’t miss 3MAP: the Three-Minute Aid Pitch.

10.30am Morning tea

11.00am Panel 4a – Working with and through markets to address poverty and exclusion
Molonglo Theatre

This panel will discuss the markets systems development (MSD) approach and how it aims to address impediments to market based improvements in the living standards of poor people, and talk about how it has been applied in a diverse set of countries. The panel will discuss how programs designed under this framework fit into the new, private sector-focused paradigm for Australian Aid, and some of the practical issues in managing MSD operations and ensuring enduring impact on poverty.

Panel 4b – Local actor-led policy development: new evidence-based approaches from Indonesia
Acton Theatre

This panel reflects on some of the results of the DFAT-funded Knowledge Sector Initiative (KSI) in Indonesia, in which ANU is an institutional partner. KSI is an innovative attempt to link the private sector (through local reform NGOs and policy institutes) to government, in order to increase the take-up of evidence-based policy initiatives in Indonesia. The panel comprises three project reports by leading reform NGOs in the fields of health, justice and poverty reduction in Indonesia, with a comment that theorizes the KSI experimental approach in light of current discourses about doing development differently and the role of local actors as part of the policy development and regulatory process.

Reconceiving science and development policy in Indonesia: academic, fiducial and bureaucratic knowledge in Supreme Court judicial reform agenda
Gita Putri, PSHK

The process of poverty policy formulation in Indonesia: the role of the SMERU Research Institute
Asep Suryahad, SMERU

PKMK: Building capacity for decision maker led implementation research in Indonesia
Yoda Mahedradhata, PKMK

Panel 4c – Closing the gender data gap: the Individual Deprivation Measure as a gender-sensitive measure of multi-dimensional poverty
Weston Theatre
Chair: Janet Hunt, ANU

The Individual Deprivation Measure (IDM) is a new, gender-sensitive and multidimensional measure of poverty. It has been developed to assess deprivation at the individual level and overcome the limitations of current approaches which measure poverty at the household level. The IDM offers a means of contributing to closing the global data gender gap and tracking whether and to what extent the Global Goals are translating into change.
This panel focuses on recent global developments in closing the gender data gap; how the IDM was developed and what it offers; findings to date from IDM country studies in Fiji and Nepal, and finally the ways in which the IDM advances a people-centred approach to development, drawing on the capability approach. The panel aims to open discussion on the theoretical, conceptual, empirical and policy opportunities and challenges that are relevant to closing the global gender data gap.

Why gender data matters: Australia’s role in global efforts to close the gender gap
Sarah Goulding, Sian Phillips, and Felicity Errington, DFAT

Developing a genuinely gender-sensitive measure of multi-dimensional poverty
Sharon Bessell, ANU

Individual measurement matters: insights from Fiji and Nepal
Kylie Fisk and Joanne Crawford, International Women’s Development Agency (IWDA)

People-centred data: what the IDM offers – a capability approach
Trang Pham, ANU

Panel 4d – Disability and development: a success story? Next steps
Barton Theatre
Chair: Bob McMullan, ANU

Disability inclusion has been seen as one of the continuing success stories of the recent Australian aid program. This panel will look at the factors behind that success and project forward to discuss the next steps for disability inclusion, particularly in the context of the Sustainable Development Goals.

Panellists:
Setareki Macanawai, CEO, Pacific Disability Forum, Fiji
Alison Chartres, Assistant Secretary, DFAT
Kirsty Thompson, Director, Inclusive Development, CBM Australia

Panel 4e – Humanitarian and disaster response
Brindabella Theatre

MPs as humanitarians: a case study of responses to the 2014 floods in Solomon Islands
Carl Adams, Tearfund New Zealand
Forecast-based financing: scoping alternatives for early action disaster response in the Pacific
Olivia Warrick, Red Cross Red Crescent Climate Centre; Emily Wilson, and Nova Wilks, Australian Red Cross

The Syrian Crisis: the macro and micro impacts of donor education aid in Lebanon
Nina Maadad, The University of Adelaide; Rim El Kadi, The Australian National University; and Minerva Nasser-Eddine, The University of Adelaide

Panel 4f – The value of research for development
Seminar Room 7

Getting more development impact through evidence and innovation: lessons from analysis of policy and practice outcomes from the Australian Development Research Awards
Debbie Muirhead, Juliet Willetts, Joanne Crawford, Jane Hutchinson, and Philippa Smales

Impact evaluation of Australian aid: how successful was the DFAT-CSIRO Research for Development Alliance?
Neil Lazarow, Seona Meharg, James Butler, Jeff Connor, John Kandulu, Kate Duggan, and Christian Roth, CSIRO and Griffin NRM

Sustaining the international public good of the state-supported research university so to meet SDG4
Albert Schram and Eric Gilder, The Papua New Guinea University of Technology

Assessing research impact: insights from knowledge system and RAPID framework
Federico Davila, ANU and Sustineo Pty Ltd; Thomas Sloan, Sustineo Pty Ltd; Lorrae van Kerkhoff, ANU; and Andrew Alford, ACIAR

12.30pm Lunch

1.30pm Plenary session: The humanitarian system in crisis
Molonglo Theatre
Chair: Stephen Howes, ANU

The humanitarian aid system is in crisis. It’s a crisis of identity, financing and conduct. Arguably, global summity in 2015 and 2016 has done little to alleviate the humanitarian aid crisis. In a business-as-usual scenario, will implementing agencies really become better coordinated and more efficient, and donors more generous, flexible and willing to increase support for local actors? This panel discussion will air a diversity of perspectives on the state of the humanitarian aid system and options for improving it. Disagreement is guaranteed. So too are concrete ideas.

Robin Davies, Associate Director, Development Policy Centre, ANU

Adam Kamradt-Scott, Associate Professor, University of Sydney

Phoebe Wynn-Pope, Director, International Humanitarian Law and Movement Relations, Australian Red Cross

Paul McPhun, Executive Director, Médecins Sans Frontières Australia

Jamie Isbister, First Assistant Secretary and Humanitarian Coordinator, DFAT

2.50pm Afternoon tea

3.10pm Panel 5a – Beyond capacity building: how development assistance can improve justice outcomes
Molonglo Theatre

How societies move towards the rule of law and well-functioning legal institutions that protect rights, safeguard against abuses of power and peacefully resolve disputes remains contested. So too does the relevance of the historical development trajectories of many donor countries for the rest of the world, given processes of uneven and combined development. Yet the recognition that the law is a key aspect of governance that provides the foundations for wider development, means the question of how to strengthen the rule of law is as relevant as ever.

Given that the rule of law speaks directly to how power is regulated within society, it is unsurprising that its development is deeply political. From who is able to freely exercise rights, to how the judiciary can hold elites to account, issues of justice speak directly to the (im)balance of power within a society. For this reason, the nature of the prevailing political settlement and the interests and incentives of elites are centrally important to citizen’s access to, and the quality of, justice. The increasing recognition of the political dynamics of development processes generally is therefore particularly relevant for the justice sector.

This panel will consider the political nature of the challenges of law and justice reform and what role aid actors can play in triggering changes that improve justice outcomes in practice, not just justice forms on paper.
WDR 2017, governance and the law
Deborah Isser, The World Bank

Promoting justice outcomes through local contest? Solomon Islands through the lens of WDR 2017
Doug Porter, ANU

Creating security in PNG’s settlements? Emerging urban leadership and forms of authority regulating violence, local economies, youth
David Craig, The World Bank

“Making big cases small and small cases disappear”: Local experiences of justice in Myanmar
Lisa Denney, Overseas Development Institute

Panel 5b – Labour mobility among Australia’s neighbours
Acton Theatre

Backpackers v seasonal workers: learning from Australia’s and New Zealand’s contrasting experiences
Richard Curtain, Stephen Howes, and Henry Sherrell, ANU

Transitional livelihoods: Timorese migrant workers in the UK
Ann Wigglesworth, Victoria University

Enhancing the development impact of labour mobility in Pacific island countries
Alisi Holani, University of Adelaide

Panel 5c – Donor aid flows, policies, and perceptions
Weston Theatre

Is it time for another Grand Assize on foreign aid? Some reflections on the Pearson and Brandt Commissions
Patrick Kilby, ANU

Foreign aid through the lens of newsprint media: a comparative analysis of Australia, New Zealand and the UK
Anthony Swan and Harriet Conron, ANU

What Australian aid flows show
Matthew Dornan, Terence Wood, and Camilla Burkot, ANU
Panel 5d – Humanitarian civil-military coordination: developments and lessons from Asia and the Pacific Region
Barton Theatre

Humanitarian civil-military coordination in disaster relief is increasingly recognised as critical to ensuring effective humanitarian response. This is compounded by an increase in the scale and frequency of natural disasters and numbers of international military deployments to disaster response operations. Although first responders to any disasters are affected populations themselves, in Asia and the Pacific region militaries also play a central role.

The informal brainstorming panel will explore several important developments in the last year that will impact on what humanitarian civil-military coordination will look like in future disasters.

Panellists:
Beth Eggleston, Humanitarian Advisory Group
Viviana De Annuntiis, UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs
Alan Ryan, Australian Civil-Military Centre
COL Amanda Fielding, Australian Defence Force

Panel 5e – Global issues in aid and development
Brindabella Theatre

Is there new capacity for redistribution to end three-quarters of global poverty?
Chris Hoy, University of Sydney; and Andy Sumner, King’s College London

Legal identity in the Post-2015 Development Agenda: promises of inclusion and dangers of exclusion
Christoph Sperfeldt, ANU

Taking SOGI rights seriously
Dennis Altman, LaTrobe University

The imperative for reforming the UN Security Council
John Langmore, University of Melbourne

Panel 5f – Engaging with churches to address gender inequality and violence
Seminar Room 7
Chair: James Batley, ANU

Faith, in whatever form it takes, plays a significant role in the lives of many people, communities and cultures throughout the world. The ideologies and beliefs that form behavioural foundations from these faith-based systems are often embedded within cultures and identity. As a result, interpretations of prominent faith-based doctrines that hold men and women on unequal footing, such as Biblical texts, can be and are used to cover-up, justify and even perpetuate gender inequality and violence against women and girls (VAWG).

This panel seeks to explore how working with and through Christian churches can be key to effectively challenging the underlying traditional belief systems that hold women as submissive and men as the “head” to enable transformative change that is built on a shifted Biblical interpretation that hold men and women as equal.

Engaging biblical theology for gender equality in the predominantly Christian Pacific context
Rev Dr Cliff Bird, UnitingWorld Pacific Regional Coordinator (Fiji)

Responding to victims of violence and working with men as advocates for gender equality
Rev Sereima Lomaloma, Anglican Diocese of Polynesia (Fiji) and House of Sarah

Working ecumenically across seven mainline churches in PNG for a shared theological view of gender equality: the Church Partnership Program
Helen Vavia, United Church PNG Development Unit, Church Partnership Program

Collaborative resonance: engaging faith leaders and communities to address gender-based violence
Abigail Howe-Will, World Vision Pacific and Timor-Leste, and Louise Kilgour, World Vision Australia

4.50pm Wrap-up session and drinks
Crawford School courtyard
Chair: Joel Negin, University of Sydney
WHO WE ARE

The Development Policy Centre (Devpolicy) is a think tank for aid and development serving Australia, the region, and the global development community. We undertake independent research and promote practical initiatives to improve the effectiveness of Australian Aid, to support the development of Papua New Guinea and the Pacific Island region, and to contribute to better development policy.

We were established in September 2010 and are based at Crawford School of Public Policy in the College of Asia and the Pacific at The Australian National University. Our publications, discussion papers, policy briefs and reports make our research available for all. Our events are fora for the dissemination of findings and the exchange of information and ideas. The Devpolicy Blog is our platform for analysis, discussion and debate.

The Development Policy Centre receives financial support for its work on international aid and development from The Harold Mitchell Foundation, The Gates Foundation and The Australian National University.

VISIT US

devpolicy.anu.edu.au

devpolicy.org