

Congratulations Bal!

By Ashlee Betteridge
24 March 2016

Congratulations to Bal Kama, a regular Devpolicy blogger and ANU Law PhD student, who last week in London was named Commonwealth Pacific Young Person of the Year for 2016, and announced as the regional winner in the 2016 Commonwealth Youth Awards for Excellence in Development Work. He received his award from Queen Elizabeth, pictured above.

Bal's award was in recognition for the work that his Kama Scholars Foundation does to provide scholarships for children in remote villages in his home country of Papua New Guinea. The Foundation also advocates for girls education, conducts health awareness training on hygiene and lifestyle, and empowers disadvantaged youths.

Read more about Bal's award here. Congratulations Bal!

About the author/s

Ashlee Betteridge

Ashlee Betteridge was the Manager of the Development Policy Centre until April 2021. She was previously a Research Officer at the centre from 2013-2017. A former journalist, she holds a Master of Public Policy (Development Policy) from ANU and has development experience in Indonesia and Timor-Leste. She now has her own consultancy, Better Things Consulting, and works across several large projects with managing contractors.

Link: <https://devpolicy.org/congratulations-bal-20160324/>

Date downloaded: 28 March 2024

Australian
National University

The Devpolicy Blog is based at the Development Policy Centre, Crawford School of Public Policy, College of Asia and the Pacific, Australian National University.